

John Nemazi

Attorney
Brooks Kushman PC

John Nemazi is a shareholder and registered patent attorney with the intellectual property law firm, Brooks Kushman in Southfield Michigan. His practice focuses on patent prosecution and technical design consulting, where he represents clients ranging from entrepreneurs to established corporations. John specializes in collaborating with his clients to search for opportunities in new markets and looks for ways to produce products that don't infringe on competitors' products. Prior to joining Brooks Kushman, John was a project engineer for General Motors in the Advanced Product Engineering Department. John is an active angel investor in companies involved in a variety technologies including: document management software, medical devices, financial payment processing and composite part manufacturing.

