

Mostansar Virk

Founder & President
EPIC Translations

Mostansar Virk is the founder and president of EPIC Translations, a premiere language services company located in Michigan providing translation, interpretation, and transcription services to companies conducting business in multiple countries. Mostansar's expertise in Operations Management enabled EPIC Translations to operate on a global scale by offering services for more than 150 languages. Mostansar developed an unrivaled database of more than 20,000 experienced linguists located throughout the globe, and it has become one of the core assets for EPIC Translations. Mostansar has also designed a proprietary project management system that is used to service EPIC Translations' clients, linguists, and business partners.

Mostansar had previously founded and was the sole investor of another company, University Textbooks. He quickly and effectively expanded University Textbooks to offer textbooks to all universities in 50 states. Prior to that, Mostansar spent 8 years in the I.T. industry managing and coordinating global software distribution as well as systems implementations for the likes of HP, Progressive Insurance, Ford Power Products, Covad Communications, and other Fortune 500 companies.

Mostansar spends his free time writing articles on various global issues. He is also an avid reader of fictional and non-fictional books. He enjoys playing volleyball and tennis. Mostansar studied Management Information Systems and Global Enterprise Management.
