

Thomas E. Anderson

Senior Director
Automation Alley

Currently Senior Director and Director for Entrepreneurship, Automation Alley, a membership consortium for technology focused companies. As Director for Entrepreneurship I also lead the business accelerator for small companies and educational programs for entrepreneurs, and manage a $6M seed investment fund. Our focus is to ensure effective transformation of technologies into solutions, providing a valued market solution and basis for a successful business. Experience base includes 4 years of independent strategic consulting, plus over 20 years experience leading technical research teams at General Motors Research and Development Center, from fundamental biomedical research to technology development
